

Jessica Pollak Kahn recently joined CMS as the Project Officer for the Medicaid Transformation and High-Risk Insurance Pool Grants. She has a Masters in Public Health from Tulane School of Public Health and Tropical Medicine. She has worked at both the state and federal levels, in healthcare service delivery, program management and evaluation. Her work has focused primarily on reproductive health, HIV/STD and disability and long-term care-with an emphasis on quality/performance improvement and monitoring/evaluation. She has 15+ years of experience in state and federal government, having worked domestically and internationally as both a civil servant and contractor.